

Holy in Christ

The call of God is the manifestation in time of the purpose of eternity: Whom He predestinated, them He also called. Believers are the called according to His purpose. In His call He reveals to us what His thoughts and His will concerning us are, and what the life to which He invites us. In His call He makes clear to us what the hope of our calling is; as we spiritually apprehend and enter into this, our life on earth will be the reflection of His purpose in eternity. Holy Scripture uses more than one word to indicate the object or aim of our calling, but none more frequently than what Peter speaks of here God has called us to be holy as He is holy. Paul addresses believers twice as called to be holy (Rom. i. 7; 1 Cor. i. 2). God called us, he says, not for uncleanness, but in sanctification (1 Thess. 12iv. 7). When he writes, The God of peace sanctify you wholly, he adds, Faithful is He which calleth you, who also will do it (1 Thess. v. 24). The calling itself is spoken of as a holy calling. The eternal purpose of which the calling is the outcome, is continually also connected with holiness as its aim. He hath chosen us in Him, that we should be holy and without blame (Eph. i. 4). Whom God chose from the beginning unto salvation in sanctification (2 Thess. ii. 12). Elect according to the foreknowledge of the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit (1 Pet. i. 2). The call is the unveiling of the purpose that the Father from eternity had set His heart upon: that we should be holy.

Holy Spirit (also called Holy Ghost) is a term found in English translations of the Bible that is the sense of the might of a unitary God. This meaning is different from the Christian concept of Holy Spirit as one personality of God in the Trinity. If a man cleanses himself from the latter, he will be an instrument for noble purposes, made holy, useful to the Master and prepared to do any good work.
